THURSDAY

A Sea-journey across Sicily Fifty shades of blue

According to your flight schedule arrival at the Palermo Airport where you'll meet your English Speaking driver. He will escort you to your Catamaran, in Castellammare del Golfo (40 minutes transfer with a luxury vehicle). You are going to embark for an amazing private cruise exploring the splendid Sicilian Northwest coast and the Aegadian Islands. Sailing north along the coast from Castellammare to Trapani, 20 kilometres (12 miles) from Palermo along the coast towards Erice and Trapani, is the Riserva dello Zingaro, a nature reserve of about 1,600 ha (3,950 acres) sloping down to the sea. Sailing from Castellammare del Golfo a beautiful fishing town that lies on the bay a jumble of small houses in pink, cream, yellow and orange, you reach the splendid Aegadian Island stopping by in Scopello, San Vito Lo Capo and Trapani.

After lunch navigate towards San Vito Lo Capo and Monte Cofano. This coast is characterized by beautiful beaches small coves and unspoilt rugged rocks, cliffs and grottos: Grotta delle Colombe, Cala dell'Uzzo fabulous cove is part of the famous Zingaro Reserve & Faraglioni di Scopello. We then continue towards San Vito Lo Capo and the Natural reserve of Monte Cofano. Late afternoon enjoy an horse ride along the coast, meet your naturalist guide and horse-guide for an easy going and very impressive late afternoon ride inside the Natural reserve. After the ride embark and continue towards the small fishing village of San Vito Lo Capo.

San Vito lo Capo is a seaside resort with gorgeous beaches of pale velvety sand, among the most beautiful in Italy. Take a walk in Piazza Santuario, the heart of the town, the unusual sanctuary-church is a square fortress first built by the Byzantines and later fortified by Arabs Normans and Spaniards in turn, incorporating the ancient 4th century chapel dedicated to the patron Saint Vitus, martyred under Diocletian. Tonight enjoy aperitif and dinner on board. Night at anchor.

FRIDAY

A Sparkly Crossroads of Mediterranean Civilizations

After breakfast departure to Trapani. Trapani is the most important city on the west coast of the island, is the capital of a region where the wide, open landscapes, full of light reflected off the sea, are picked out in white, straggling, flat-roofed villages; very North African in atmosphere. Selinunte and Segesta, two of Sicily's most exciting archeological areas, are in this part of the island, as are the fascinating old cities of Erice and Marsala, and the beautiful offshore Aegadians islands.

Today meet your English speaking driver, and your local guide for a full-day immersion exploring Trapani, Erice and Segesta. Start discovering Trapani, the old city occupies a scimitar-shaped promontory between the open sea to the north and the port and salt marshes to the south. The elegant shops in the traffic-free old town have inviting window display and the Corso is lined with interesting monumental buildings. The collection of decorative arts in the Pepoli Museum is one of the best on the island and is particularly famous for its works in coral. Continue towards Segesta for a guided tour of the archeological park offering a unique backdrop. Segesta was one of the major cities of the indigenous Elymian people who were eventually Hellenized taking on the typical characteristics of Greek life. The city was later ruled by Romans and further on by a Muslim community during the Norman period in Sicily. Segesta's most famous remain is its Greek Doric Temple built on a hill outside of the ancient city. Enjoy wandering this fascinating site led by our local expert who will explain its complex history. After you are all experts on Segesta, enjoy a wonderful typical Sicilian lunch in a local Agriturismo, overlooking the Temple of Segesta, what a privileged location, don't you think!

The next cultural stop will be Erice, a clifftop town at 750 meters above sea level offering sprawling views across the sea to the Egadi Islands and overlooking Trapani and Marsala. Your guide will help you explore this Phoenician town, which was later Hellenized, Romanized, Normanized. Erice is a medieval walled town perched on top of Mt San Giuliano, an isolated limestone spur high above the sea. The locals call their town 'u Munti, the mountain. It is often shrouded in a mist, known as il velo di Venere (the veil of Venus), and it can be very chilly here, the steep cobbled street deserted and slippery which contributes to the feeling of isolation. After the visit your driver will escort you back to your catamaran. Enjoy a wonderful aperitif and dinner on board. Night at anchor.

SATURDAY

Aegadian Islands Paleolithic Wall-Painting and Tuna Fishing Rituals

Spend the day cruising the Egadi islands, the Odyssey dubbed the ancient Aegates “islands of the goats”. This tiny archipelago stands near Trapani and is renowned for its wild aspect, coastal beauty and the limpid sea that embrace it all. First stop in Levanzo, the tiny island has this particular pastoral charm, with goats and sheep grazing quietly on the sides of its many hills.

Late morning, a speleologist in a private boat will escort you in one of the most amazing place of prehistoric Sicily, “la grotta del Genovese”, for a private visit. The grotto was discovered in 1949, it contains vestiges of wall-painting dating the Upper Paleolithic era, while the incised drawing may be from the Neolithic period. The graffiti represent bison and a deer of the most pleasing proportion, elegance and foreshortening. The charcoal and animal fat paintings represent early attempts at fishing (stylized representations of both tuna and dolphins are discernible). The grotto is jeep and then by foot in a small trekking. After the visit enjoy an “light lunch” on the island with delicious typical Aegadian products. After lunch sail towards Favignana the main island of this small arcipelago.

Favignana is well known for its beautiful caves, its unspoilt beaches and the Mattanza (the traditional, but cruel, ritual of systematically licking the tuna trapped in the nets, known as the “camera della morte” room of death). Spend the afternoon sailing around the island, then enjoy an independent visit of the main town and its Museum dedicated to the Mattanza and the tuna fishing.

Tonight we'll find the perfect spot where to have a typical Sicilian dinner with the catch of the day. Night at anchor.

SUNDAY

The Allure of Sweet Marsala and Greek Amazing Grace

After breakfast navigate towards Marsala. At the harbor meet your English speaking driver and your local guide for a visit to Marsala, the town gives its name to a famous dessert wine still produced here in large quantities from the vineyards along the coast, so enjoy a marsala tasting at one of the most prestigious Marsala wine maker, Marco De Bartoli, and a wonderful lunch in Motya.

Discover the narrow streets of the sweet Marsala, the city of the well-known Florio Family the Sicilian entrepreneurs who exported the Marsala wine all over the world. Marsala is a pleasant town with a neat city centre and an attractive open seafront on Capo Boeo, the site of the Carthaginian city Lilybaeum. Founded by the Carthaginians in 396 BC, became their strongest bulwark in Sicily after the sack of Motya in 397 BC.

It succumbed to the Romans only after a siege of ten years (250-241 BC) Than Roman and Saracen, almost a British protectorate and finally Italian with Garibaldi, the "Thousand" landed here on 11th May 1860. After a short visit to the city center we continue towards the Salt Marshes area, enjoy the striking landscape with its salt marshes, basins and windmills, where the color palette goes from the intense yellow through the bright whites passing for the multiple range of ochres, a feast for the view. We now embark and ship for the marvelous Phoenician city of Motya in the island of San Pantaleo, exclusively open for you, for a special hand-on culinary and cultural experience. After an out-of-the ordinary tour around the island and a visit to the "must see" statue of the "Young Man of Mozia", we'll choose a breathtaking spot of the island and enjoy the view.

Enjoy a special gastronomic treat just for you, we'll bring in Mozia a team of local women who will prepare the famous fish couscous "alla trapanese", observe and help to prepare the typical "incocciata" (the way the women from Trapani cook the couscous grain) and then delight your palate with the best couscous you ever had in your life, looking at the Phoenicians ruins and the Stagnone islands, in a private garden local women will serve you an excellent Sicilian lunch, a private delight that you will never forget. Back on the mainland, according to your flight schedule, your English speaking driver will escort you to the Palermo Airport, fly back home!

Grazie!
